AIR CITY: out of air

 11  0  1

Chapter 1 by Marcus

The first day- George's group

All the air is gone, we use broken oxygen tanks to survive in this harsh environment.

Today the air in air city has depleted so much that no one can breathe without any support from an oxygen tank or some other device with oxygen. My rag-tag group of survivors have been scavenging all day to find more oxygen, we found almost nothing. All the oxygen banks have already been looted. People without oxygen have already started to show signs of a kind of mutation from loss of oxygen. Their skin is getting pale and are getting bumps and rashes all over their skin. Our brains are aching from the loss of oxygen that we need. It's getting dark now, I should go.
